

Christmas Around the World

Japan – go to their local KFC to eat dinner and they also have parades during Christmas where they dance and eat sponge cake

French - most French children open their presents on Christmas Eve. French people eat food like snails, oysters and salmon.

New Zealand – have a BBQ for Christmas because it is too hot. New Zealand also have parades but they have parades late November to make up for other holidays they miss due to the weather.

Germany – German people celebrate Christmas by making a pickle ornament they also do not celebrate Santa they celebrate St. Nicholas who gives them presents instead of Santa.

Ukrainians – in Ukraine if you find a spider web on Christmas morning it is a sign of good luck. In Ukraine you bring a wheat sheaf into the house to remind their ancestors about the agriculture in Ukraine.
